

Cruising Yacht seeks Worthy Owner

People who do not know that a sailboat is a living creature will never understand anything about boats and the sea. – Moitessier

If you slowly nod in agreement with Moitessier, then you may be ready to assume the role of Owner and Master of this highly-capable cruising yacht.

Now entering Her fortieth year, She has been with Her current Owner for the past two decades. Together, they have explored fresh water and salt, seen sea miles vanish 'neath their keel, and bonded through adventures undertaken and challenges overcome. Through that, they have become as one; each an extension of the other.

Throughout their time together, they have looked after one another pretty well. Their well being and fate inextricably coupled. This is as it should be.

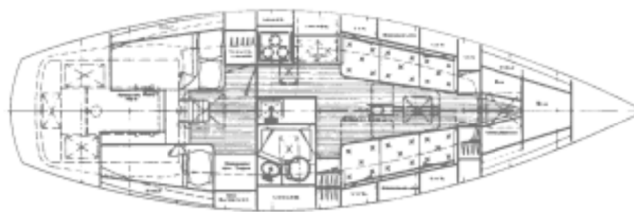

Now, changing circumstances compel a search for a new Owner. One who understands.

She seeks an Owner of character who will cherish and care for Her. One who will never ask more of Her than they would of themselves. She will, in turn, bring them home safely to prepare for their next adventure.

She is currently docked in Whitby, Ontario, and ready to interview prospective Owners.

If you believe you are ready for the commitment and yourself to be worthy of Her, then further information is available ...
