

Situation Report 003; 2012-06-01

A brief note this time, as fatigue prevents me from composing anything more elaborate.

As I write this, Saorsa II is docked at the Rochester Yacht Club waiting out a spell of poor weather. Conditions out on the lake are, at best, very unpleasant. When we get moving again, the next stop will be Sodus Bay and then Oswego where the mast will be unstepped in readiness for a transit of the Erie Canal to the Hudson River.

We departed Wiggers' at Port Darlington on Wednesday, May 30 and sailed to Cobourg where we stayed overnight at the marina. From Cobourg, we made a ten hour crossing of the lake to Rochester.
